

Wine by the Glass

Red apple skin with oyster brine and seafunk. Round, lush, and a little nutty – like your fun drunk aunt.

Monastero Suore Cistercensi 'Coenobium' White Blend 2019 / Lazio, Italy - $17/$66

A slight skin contact white blend made by Italian nuns. Green apples, bruised pear layered upon a silky savoriness of almonds, fennel, and zest of Meyer lemon. Holy sh*t, it's good.

Luyt, 'Gorda Blanca' / Sur, Chile 2017 - $18/$70

Uhm, is this Mezcal or wine? Or is this the offspring of Sherry and Mezcal? Whatever it is, we like it, we love it, we want some more of it.

✓ Orange - Light Skin Contact

Korenika & Moškon, Malvasija / Istria, Slovenia 2019 - $17/$66

This one has a couple days of skin contact, but is so clean and salty that we think of it as a textured white. Like a more savory Chardonnay that smells like Christmas ham with a whiff of White Diamonds perfume.

Jász Laci, 'Sági Narancs' Olaszrizling / Somló, Hungary 2020 - $18/$74

Honeysuckle, marigold, and dandelion on the nose with a muttering of quince and brine on the finish. The wine comes from "The Valley of the Fairies" a magical and ancient basalt mound in the region. 'Tis a whimsical wine indeed.

Gabriels' Wine, Rkatsiteli / Kakheti, Georgia 2019 - $19/$74

Looks like golden raisin juice, smells like lemongrass, and tastes like a black tea with lemon, honey, and a pinch of ginger.

✓ Orange - Full Skin Contact

Orgo, Rkatsiteli / Kakheti, Georgia 2019 - $18/$70

This is an orange wine for Chenin Blanc drinkers. With four months on the skins, this wine has a creamy root beer thing going on. We can pretend it has a red and white swirl straw.

Tschotiashvili, Mstvane Amber / Kakheti, Georgia 2016 - $19/$74

Savory and salty lemon caper pasta with a sprinkle of jasmine and sage.

Monastero Suore Cistercensi 'Coenobium Ruscum' / Lazio, Italy 2020 - $20/$78

Orange wine made by nuns right outside of Rome. Orange peel, marmalade, apricot, spearmint, and fresh herbs.

✓ Chilled Reds / Rosado / Co-Ferments

Bojo do Luar 'Deli Pinote' Vinho Tinto / Vinho Verde, Portugal 2020 - $14/$54

Effortless and whimsical. Playful brandied cherries meet fresh raspberries in this medley of native northern Portuguese grapes.
